GRUNGE GONE GLAM BY JANE CLAUSS

Grunge Gone Glam (GGG) by Jane Clauss is designed to make you ask, "How can I live big today?" From bold, cut-and-paste style typography that shouts confidence and fun to sweet roses and a Forever Young attitude stamped into plaid, this collection is equal parts edgy and beautiful. Add in modern stripes, statement florals, and wild prints, and you've got a mix that plays perfectly together. This collection is ready for whatever you love to make. If you're a garment sewist, these prints bring instant personality to jackets, skirts, pants, and statement tops, and they pair beautifully with solids for a polished finish. If you're a quilter, use the typography, plaids, florals, and stripes for standout blocks and statement moments, or mix in a pop of glam as an accent print. And for home décor, Grunge Gone Glam is perfect for throw pillows, table runners, and any project that deserves a little extra personality. With a little inspiration and some imagination, you can go big, mix boldly, and have fun!

Jane Clauss is a multi-Emmy Award-winning television host, pattern and fashion designer, and lifelong sewist with more than 25 years of experience inspiring audiences to live better creatively. Sewing has been part of her life since childhood, and in 2008 she made an intentional shift to use media to encourage people to get creative, try making, and trust their skills. Jane's media career is rooted in storytelling, spotlighting makers and the motivation behind what they create in her TV series, Craft Room Crash. Today, she brings that same storytelling instinct into fabric design, creating prints that tell a story and offer a starting point for personal style.

Her aesthetic infuses joy as a design principle, where color is intentional, whimsy has purpose, and playfulness is balanced with technique. From sustainable style to modern home décor, she brings high-energy and a keen eye for design to projects that help makers create pieces that feel polished, wearable, and full of personality.

Jane has shared her creative expertise on The TODAY Show, HSN, PBS It's Sew Easy, The List, and beyond. She continues to connect with audiences through her podcast, Creative Living, serves as the media spokesperson for the International Housewares Association, and works as an on-camera host and producer for Fairfield Processing, developing videos that highlight products and creative possibilities for makers everywhere. Jane has partnered with sewing and lifestyle brands, including Brother International, as a brand ambassador, fashion show producer, media spokesperson, and host of their Side Hustle series.
